Chan de Vide Winery

Located on the border between Galicia (Spain) and Portugal; between the Atlantic Ocean and the Miño River.

The traditional Pesqueiras on the Miño River. Natural border between Portugal and Galicia (Spain). Just a few metres from our wineries

Our wineries are located in a historic building from the beginning of the last century..

To make our wines we rely primarily on the many hectares of our own vineyards, but we also collaborate with small local winegrowers, seeking the sustainability of the territory.

The Rías Baixas, in the heart of Galicia, represent one of the most unique jewels of the Spanish wine scene. This privileged region offers an exceptional environment for growing vines, where the Atlantic microclimate, the complex topography and the granitic soils combine harmoniously with the native varieties, giving rise to a unique and extremely rich wine ecosystem.

The distinctive character of the wines of the Rías Baixas Designation of Origin is forged in this natural environment. Climatic factors – such as temperature, rainfall and light intensity – play a crucial role, interacting in a sophisticated way to favour the optimal ripening of the grapes. These interactions, which can be analysed through indices of variable complexity, are fundamental to understanding the viticultural excellence of the area.

The Condado do Tea, one of the most outstanding sub-areas of the Rías Baixas Designation of Origin, is located in a privileged enclave on the banks of the Miño River. This region enjoys a distinctive microclimate that, together with the orography and the soils of granite and schist origin, contributes to the production of highquality wines, especially the Albariño variety, although other native grapes such as Treixadura and Loureira also find their best expression here.

Our County

Unlike other sub-areas of Rías Baixas, Condado do Tea has a slightly warmer and drier climate, which favours a slower and more balanced ripening of the grapes.

> Unlike other sub-areas of Rías Baixas, Condado do Tea has a slightly warmer and drier climate, which favours a slower and more balanced ripening of the grapes. This factor, combined with its sun exposure and the moderate influence of the Miño currents, allows for wines with vibrant acidity and a more complex structure. The well-drained, mineral-rich soils give the wines a marked minerality, a distinctive characteristic of this sub-areas.

> El Condado do Tea has established itself as a benchmark within the DO Rías Baixas thanks to the perfect combination of its terroir and the mastery of its winegrowers. The wines from this region are distinguished by their freshness, aromatic intensity and an impeccable balance between fruit, acidity and minerality, qualities that make them unique within the Galician wine scene and position them among the most appreciated white wines both nationally and internationally.

Authenticity without filter

This wine has not been filtered and therefore bottles may contain lees, but this not impact the wine quality.

Chan de Vide Deitado is crafted with grapes from selected plots of land from our vineyards and small local producers.

The process of its making is fully adapted to modern times, but inspired in the making of wine in the riverbanks of Miño in ancient times.

Beyond doubt, a potent specimen of Atlantic red wine.

To the eyes: Ruby with a touch of purple/red.

To the nose: Strawberries, raspberries and a light touch of salt.

To the taste: fresh and elegant, fine and balanced with salt and mineral flavours brought together into a tasteful blend.

Extensive and persistent finish.
